

Dear friends,

Last week, the Luxton clan enjoyed a break in Southend, Kintyre. On Sunday, we visited a nearby tidal island called Davaar that hosts an infamous cave painting of the crucifixion.

In 1887 Archibald Mackinnon, A local Campbeltown art teacher, had a vision in which he was instructed to paint a depiction of the crucifixion. He secretly entered a cave and adorned one of its rocky walls with the image he dreamt. But his secrecy may not have been wise. When local fishermen came across the painting, they thought the artwork was a miracle, a sign from God. After the townsfolk discovered that the artist was MacKinnon, a mere mortal and not a divine being, they were so angry that they drove him out of town.¹

The, life size, painting was really quite something and served as a reminder of the history that we share as followers of Christ. The painting, which has been restored by art teachers from the local school, has been visited for over a hundred years by people who know Christ and people who are curious about Him. The writer of the Hebrews tells us that:

Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever.

Perhaps, Mackinnon left us his painting as a reminder of the inexhaustible gift of hope that Christ offers to the world. As autumn approaches we will be considering what our next steps are. Let us pray during this time for assurance that whatever necessary changes may take place we will always have a dependable and unshakeable cornerstone in Jesus Christ.

See, I am laying in Zion a stone,
a cornerstone chosen and precious;
and whoever believes in him will not be put to shame. (1 Peter 2:6)

Sharing In and Out Together

World Mission: Beirut Explosion

The catastrophic explosion in Beirut last week has left countless lives, homes and buildings in ruins. Amongst those directly affected is the Foundation for Forgiveness and Reconciliation in Lebanon. In a video (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=a5AnO2mUPJI>), Director, Ramy Taleb, takes us through the damage caused to their building and the devastation to the families they work with.

Please join us in praying for the various organisations that they will know how best to serve their communities as they recover from the disaster.
